

FOR HOSTS

Explainer card

How to use

YOUR 'HERE'S TO' CARDS

The 'Here's To': Project is a special way to bring people together to celebrate, remember, support, or honour the people and moments that matter most.

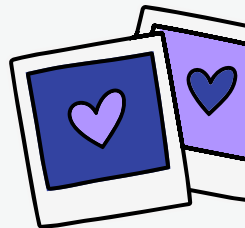

Blood cancer impacts all of us differently. It can change lives and create uncertainty and distance. But it also reminds us what matters most. And that's why you've gathered your friends and family here today.

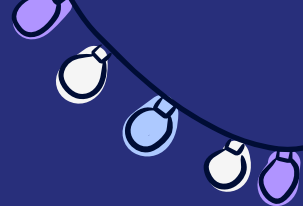

These cards are for you to share with your guests, inviting them to write down a memory, message, or reflection connected to the reason you've come together.

What you do with these cards is completely up to you. You could invite guests to read them aloud, display them for everybody to see, or simply have them as a keepsake.

Leukaemia
Foundation

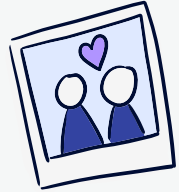

Write your 'HERE'S TO' CARDS

1

Reflect or share why you're here. It could be a special memory, you're favourite thing about the person you're celebrating or remembering, a message for your host, or what this occasion means to you.

2

On the other side of the card, write your very own 'Here's To' statement. This could be a message of hope, reflection, support, or just celebrating coming together to help families facing blood cancer.

3

At the end of the evening, give this card to your host, or leave it on the table.

Leukaemia
Foundation

HERE'S TO project

Here's to...

Write it, draw it or doodle it.
Make this moment your own.

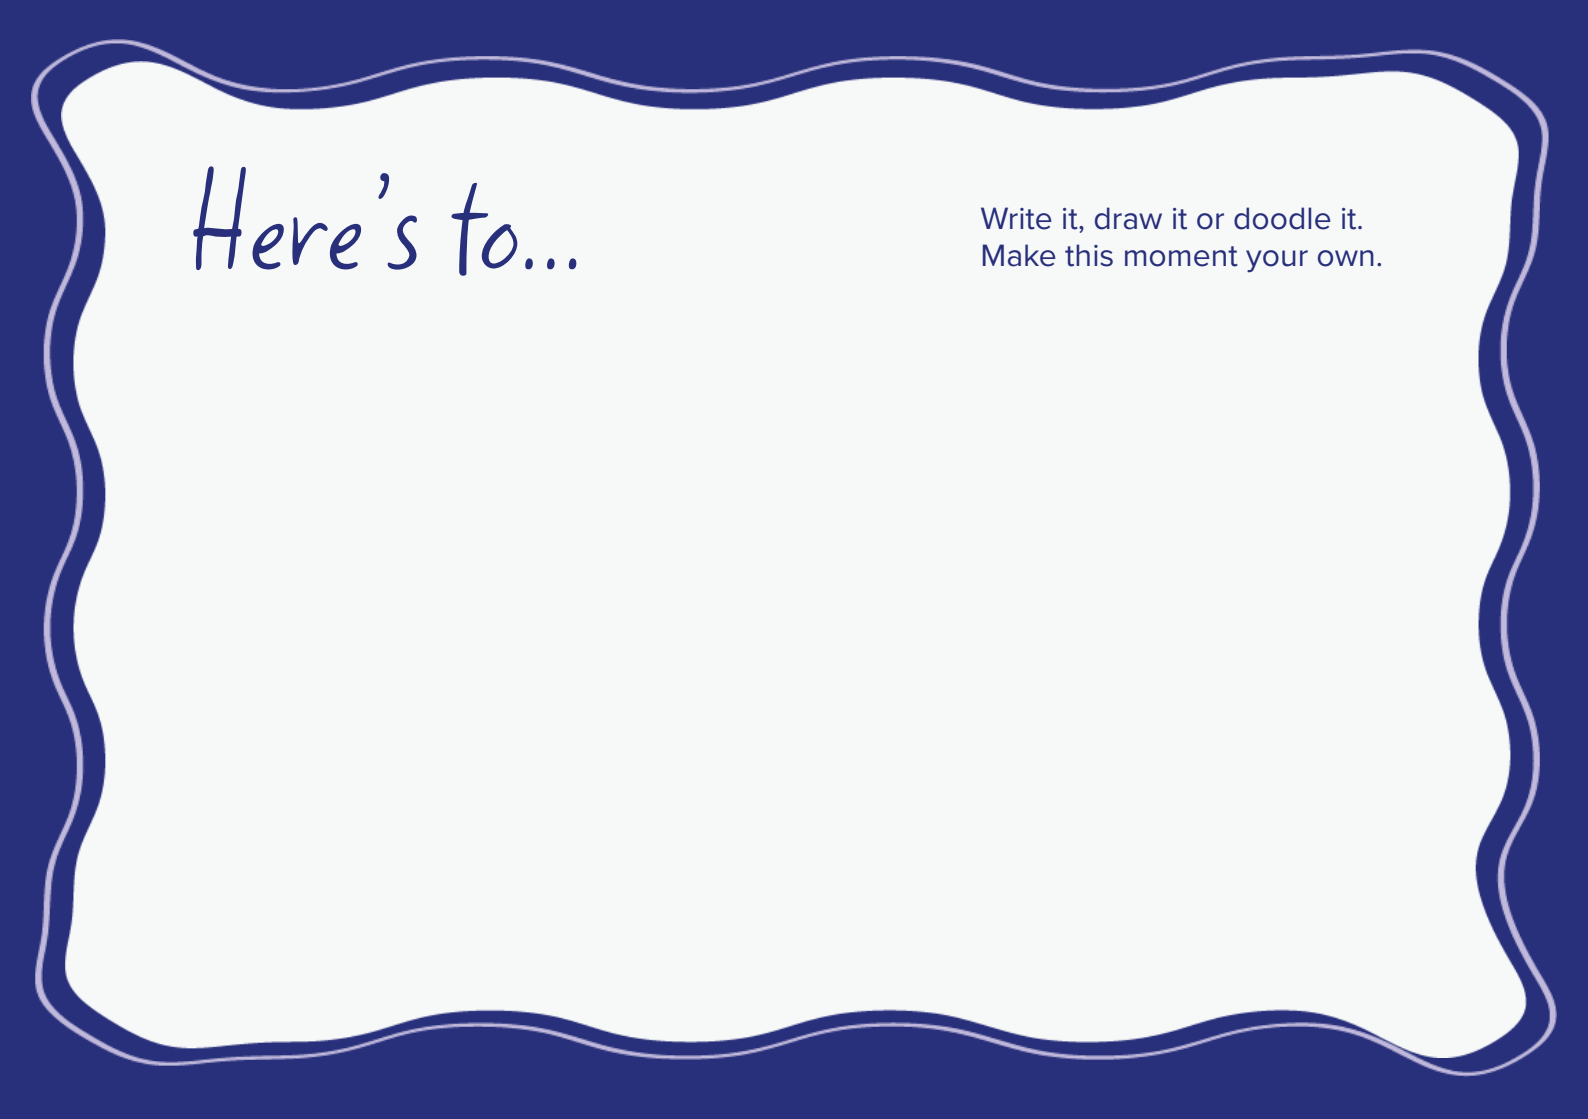

Here's to...

Write it, draw it or doodle it.
Make this moment your own.

Here's to...

Write it, draw it or doodle it.
Make this moment your own.

Here's to...

Write it, draw it or doodle it.
Make this moment your own.